

Bridging the gap from academia to the Federal government

Erica Towle is the National Coral Reef Monitoring Program Coordinator for NOAA's Coral Reef Conservation Program (CRCP). She holds a Ph.D. in marine biology and fisheries from the University of Miami Rosenstiel School of Marine and Atmospheric Science with a focus on the effects of climate change on Caribbean coral resilience. Following her Ph.D., Erica earned a Sea Grant Knauss Fellowship to work in Congress for a year on the Senate Commerce, Science, and Transportation Committee; Subcommittee on Oceans, Atmosphere, Fisheries, and Coast Guard. Prior to joining the CRCP, Erica staffed the Administrator of NOAA on the National Ocean Service. She currently resides in Washington, D.C., and enjoys spending her free time volunteering, exercising, and traveling.
