COURSE OBJECTIVES
This 3-credit course covers neuroscience research at being performed at Mason. Beginning on the second week of the semester, every other week, a Mason faculty member will give a presentation on a published major research project from her or his laboratory. The week following each presentation, the class will discuss the presentation and published article(s) pertaining to the prior presentation and write a short report. In addition, time remaining after class discussions will be used to prepare a longer primary research article of a mock research project from the instructor's laboratory. It is expected that students learn the process of writing while broadening their understanding of Mason neuroscience research.

READING MATERIALS
Primary research articles will be downloaded through the Mason library system.

GRADING POLICY
There will be a total of six short reports and one long report. Each short report will be worth 10% of the final grade and must be submitted prior to the following faculty presentation. The long report will be worth 40% of the final grade and must be submitted no later than one week following the last day of class, December 9th. There are no quizzes or exams.

A score of 90% or above generally results in a grade of A- or above, 80 or above corresponds to a B- or above, and 70 or above results in a C- or above. These number-to-letter grade conversions serve as a guideline and are not absolute. The final grades may be determined on a curve if this is in the students favor and justified in the opinion of the instructor. Make-up reports are not allowed. Please do not put the instructor in a difficult position by missing a report deadline and then requesting an extension or a make-up without written medical documentation explaining the missed obligation.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY
GMU is an Honor Code university; please see the University Catalog for a full description of the code and the honor committee process. The principle of academic integrity is taken very seriously and violations are treated gravely. What does academic integrity mean in this course? Essentially this: when you are responsible for a task, you will perform that task. When you rely on someone else’s work in an aspect of the performance of that task, you will give full credit in the proper, accepted form. Another aspect of academic integrity is the free play of ideas. Vigorous discussion and debate are encouraged in this course, with the firm expectation that all aspects of the class will be conducted with civility and respect for differing ideas, perspectives, and traditions. When in doubt (of any kind) please ask for guidance and clarification.

GMU EMAIL ACCOUNTS
Students must use their Masonlive email accounts to receive important University information, including messages related to this class. See http://masonlive.gmu.edu for more information.
OFFICE OF DISABILITY SERVICES

Disability Services at George Mason University is committed to providing equitable access to learning opportunities for all students by upholding the laws that ensure equal treatment of people with disabilities. If you are seeking accommodations for this class, please first visit http://ds.gmu.edu/ for detailed information about the Disability Services registration process. Then please discuss your approved accommodations with me. The Office of Disability Services (ODS) is located in Student Union Building I (SUB I), Suite 2500. If you are a student with a disability and you need academic accommodations, please see me and contact the ODS. All academic accommodations must be arranged through the ODS.
